Four ways we make your meetings better

A screenshot of a video conference window. In the center, there is a dark rectangular overlay with rounded corners. At the top of this overlay is a blue bar with the white text "What do I say next?". Below this, in a white area, is a quote: "I hear you on the integration concerns—that's usually the first thing that comes up. We've actually built direct connectors for the tools you mentioned, and our average setup time is only half a day." At the bottom of the overlay, there is a thin black bar with three small icons: a microphone, a camera, and a gear. Below the main video conference window, there is a dark bar with several small icons: a microphone, a camera, a gear, the word "zoom", a globe, and a trash can. At the bottom of the image, there is a blue banner with the white text "AI that answers questions for you, real-time".
